Dance for PD® Training Workshop
(Special Professional Registration Track)

Dance for PD® Introductory Training Workshop

The Alabama Dance Festival is pleased to offer a new professional development opportunity made possible through a partnership with Southern Danceworks. Taught by David Leventhal, the Dance for PD® Introductory Workshop is open to trained dancers and dance instructors (may select Registration Option 1 or Option 2). Physical and occupational therapists, healthcare professionals, somatic movement practitioners, yoga teachers, carepartners and other movement teachers are also welcome to attend (please select Registration Option 1). Registration is online at www.alabamadancefestival.org. Click on the "Register Now" button to begin registration.

Registration Option 1: Dance for PD® Training Workshop

For those who only want to attend the two-day workshop, please select the Dance for PD® Training Workshop Registration. This registration option is $140 for ADC Members and $150 Non-Members. It includes:

- Two-day workshop on Friday and Saturday, January 25-26
- Box lunch on both days

You may add Alabama Dance Festival performance tickets to this registration as an additional purchase.

Registration Option 2: Dance for PD® Training Workshop Discount Package

Dance professionals who would like to take other dance classes or workshops at the Festival and attend performances should register for the Dance for PD® Training Workshop Discount Package. This registration option is $190 for ADC Members and $200 for Non-Members. The package registration includes:

- Two-day workshop on Friday and Saturday, January 25-26
- Box lunch on Friday and Saturday
- Up to 3 additional classes/workshops on January 18 and 27
- One Kyle Abraham/Abraham.In.Motion ticket, one Performing Black ticket, one New Works Concert ticket, one Alabama Dance Showcase ticket

Workshop Description

Dance for PD®'s acclaimed introductory training workshops are designed to enrich, inform and inspire a diverse group of individuals who want to introduce people with Parkinson's to the joys and benefits of a customized and creative dance experience. During Dance for PD® workshops, facilitators utilize specially-designed training modules, demo classes and interactive sessions to provide a wide spectrum of practical information and approaches for those who are interested in the intersection of dance and Parkinson's disease. The primary focus of the workshop is to guide trained dancers and dance instructors as they adapt their expertise to work effectively and comfortably with the Parkinson's population under the guidelines and methodology of the Dance for PD® program. Physical and occupational therapists, healthcare professionals, somatic movement practitioners, yoga teachers, carepartners and other movement teachers are also welcome to attend. Since 2007, more than 400 people from seven countries have participated in Dance for PD® introductory workshops. The two-day non-certifying workshop is supplemented by post-workshop continuing education opportunities available through advanced professional development workshops and comprehensive online resources for those who wish to join as members. The workshop is one of several prerequisites for qualified dance teachers who are interested in applying for future certification that recognizes their expertise in the Dance for PD® approach.
